

Stems #5435 Practice 1

Name _____ Vocab 1 practice honors

Megalopolis heliocentric Sonorous Euphemisms Corpulent vital cognizant matriarch contravene gyrations surcharges verify chronic altruistic magnate

1. Due to the elephant's corpulent body type, the veterinarian had a difficult time administering anesthesia.
2. The magnate was ~~very~~ very influential in the business sector but also donated millions of dollars to charity every year.
3. Airline passengers for all major airlines are facing higher landing fees and fuel surcharges than ever before.
4. Instead of saying words, such as poop, many parents prefer their children use words, such as "kaka" and "number two". They consider these words, known as euphemisms better or ~~polite~~ more polite.
5. Water and food are considered vital for maintaining life.
6. Joey's work with the homeless in his area highlighted his altruistic personality. He was always putting others before himself.
7. If one has never had a baby, there is no way to be cognizant of labor pains.
8. When the doctors heard the patient's sonorous breathing, they knew he needed oxygen immediately.
9. The waitress asked to see my driver's license, so she could verify my age.
10. Her perfect gyrations helped the girl keep the hula hoop going round and round.
11. Because the student's actions contravene school policy, he will be suspended for ten days.
12. Everyone was surprised to learn the matriarch of the violent gang was an elderly grandmother.
13. The Dallas-Fort Worth area of Texas is considered a/an megalopolis. The huge cities have grown so much, they are considered one urban region.
14. Copernicus' heliocentric concept suggested the earth revolved around a solar body.
15. My father suffers from chronic arthritis; he hasn't been walking without a cane for more than ten years.